

What is a Weekly Journal Entry in photography?

A journal entry is informal writing to summarize your learning in photography for the week. It must be written on a blog page so I can provide feedback on your assignment or POW.

Your journal entry should include

1. Research you have done on your own,
2. Your camera experience for the week and
3. Any special issues you encountered.

It is also an opportunity to reflect on your work or ask a question.

I would expect your blog to be a minimum of four sentences in length. It can include images or video links or other internet resources.

Journal entries are due each Friday by 12:00 midnight.
